EXPIRY is imminent: Businesses need to act now

Businesses that have not yet migrated towards Windows 7, Windows XP 'End of Life' and other software solutions face a deadline of 1 April 2014.

Between IT departments and organised crime, the time is running out for businesses that have not yet migrated towards Windows 7, Windows XP 'End of Life' and other software solutions. The deadline for businesses to migrate to Windows 7 is 1 April 2014. If a business does not migrate by this date, it will no longer be able to receive security updates from Microsoft. This is not just a security risk, it is a business risk. Windows XP is no longer supported by Microsoft, which means that any vulnerabilities discovered in the software will not be patched. This is a significant risk for businesses that rely on Windows XP for their operations. The IT department must act now to migrate to Windows 7 to avoid these risks.

Michael Gibson is Managing Director of AppSense Asia Pacific.

It is imperative for the CIO and IT department to take action now to avoid the risks of not migrating to Windows 7. The deadline for businesses to migrate to Windows 7 is 1 April 2014. The Auckland 200 logo is a stylized representation of the city's natural environment, featuring a green and blue color palette. The logo is composed of two main elements: the word "Auckland" in a sans-serif font, and the year "200" in a large, bold, stylized font. The "200" is formed by a dense pattern of small, overlapping shapes that resemble leaves or feathers, creating a textured, organic appearance. The logo is presented in two color variations: a green and blue gradient, and a solid blue and green gradient.

If logo is placed on a black or mirrored background, the white reserved logo must be used. On banners, the use of banners should be that the coverage must be at least 100% to be used.
